

Press Release

mta automation ag acquires Global Automation Inc. to form mta automation inc.

As planned since earlier this decade, mta automation ag, part of the unitechnologies group has acquired Global Automation Inc. (Old Saybrook, CT, USA) effective July 1, 2009. The new company will operate under the name of mta automation inc.

The transaction reaffirms mta's strong commitment to the North American market as a continued leader in the automated soldering, dispensing and assembly arenas. Cliff Bockard will assume the position of President and CEO of mta automation inc., replacing Heinz Bockard, who will be retiring from Global. No other personnel changes will be made. Global Automation, mta and the industry thank Heinz for the years of dedication, service, and innovation he has brought to his customers and wish him much success in retirement.

mta automation ag is a subsidiary of unitechnologies group located in Gals, Switzerland. mta automation ag designs and manufactures assembly systems, with key competencies in the selective soldering and volumetric dispensing process, based on proven international experience since 1966. For further information on the company, please visit www.mta.ch.

unitechnologies group, created in 2000, assembles several companies, including mta automation ag, Sysmelec SA on the same industrial site in Gals, Switzerland and employs more than 120 specialists. The group serves industries such as medical, electronics, automotive, instrumentation, watch-making and telecommunication. For further information on the company, please visit www.unitechnologies.com

mta automation ag

For further information, please feel free to contact:

Ms. Natacha Schüpbach – Communications Manager & Assistant to Chairman

☎ +41 (0)32 338 85 85

✉ natacha.schupbach@unitechnologies.com